Who are Teach First?

We are an education charity working with schools across the country to ensure that all children have access to an excellent education regardless of their background. In partnership with others we recruit dynamic, passionate individuals and support them to raise the achievement, aspirations and access to opportunity for their pupils. Our trainees join our Leadership Development Programme (LDP) which involves teaching for a minimum of two years, achieving a PGCE and wider leadership skills training.

Having been successful in our rigorous selection process, and as part of the intensive Leadership Development Programme, these dynamic individuals have combined working, training and qualifying as a teacher with leadership training, coaching and mentoring.

So if you think you have a project that you've always wanted to complete but not had the time, here's your chance.

"At PwC we've offered Summer Projects to 124 Teach First participants and ambassadors since 2010 and the conversion from Summer Projects to full-time graduate roles continues to be very high. We know that the graduates we recruit from Teach First are some of our best communicators, are highly driven and combine self-discipline with warmth, empathy and determination and we're proud to work so closely towards the Teach First mission."

What are Summer Projects?

Summer Projects are mini-internships. They take place during the month of August when our community of leaders join new organisations, like yours, to complete, or contribute to, a short-term goal or objective. Our community can provide a unique additional resource for your organisation.
