

Tell your story!

Join us and share your experiences about homelessness...

We think that people telling their own stories about the experiences that matter to them, and that are important to their lives is powerful stuff. Community Reporting is all about storytelling. At the heart of what we do is helping people to find their voice and describe their own realities through storytelling. We use basic digital skills and pocket technology such as smartphones and tablets to support people to tell their own stories, in their own ways.

We are currently looking for people to join us to share their experiences of homelessness. Have you experienced homelessness? Have you supported someone close to you through homelessness? Do you work with people experiencing homelessness? Do you provide housing and homelessness support services? Then if so, we'd like to hear your story.

As part of a wider project, your stories will then be included in a film that will reflect the situation of homelessness in Manchester. The film will be used to create conversations about the topic with a view to changing attitudes and policies.

Want to get involved?

We're running 4 Community Reporting sessions for people who want to share their story.

If you want to learn more about storytelling, digital skills and be a part of the Community Reporter movement, then join us on:
