ARTS

Andrew Lloyd Webber Foundation

Andrew Lloyd Webber Foundation

Aims/priorities: Funding is for projects that make a real and ongoing difference to people's lives in the UK. The Trustees state that for grant purposes:

- Real means an appreciable and significant difference. For example, something that affects one person's life to a great extent, possibly leading to a significantly improved probability that the person will be involved in the Arts on an ongoing basis (i.e., by having a career in the Arts) and something that affects many people's lives, (i.e., through improved access to the Arts).
- Difference implies that the funding award contributes to something that would not otherwise happen, without the making of such awards. This might (but need not necessarily) include the overcoming of special difficulties/obstacles.
- Ongoing refers to something that is going to have a long-term benefit and an ongoing effect on people's lives, rather than 'an effect that is ephemeral'.

Priority will be given to projects that enable people to develop skills and careers in heritage and in all areas of the performing arts (music, dance and drama) but other areas will be considered.

Garfield Weston Foundation

Aims/priorities: The Foundation supports a broad range of charities across the UK that make a positive difference. The Foundation 'strongly recommends' groups apply for whatever are their greatest priority and area of need. This could be in one of three areas: capital, revenue ('core costs') or project work.

- Capital costs – funding for tangible things, such as a building project, repairs, equipment etc. A grant is unlikely to be more than around 10% of the total Capital project cost.

- Revenue/Core Costs – funding for the general costs of what the organisation does – its activity. As a general rule, this funding is unlikely to be more than approximately 10-20% of the organisation's total annual income.
- Project Costs – funding for a very specific project or activity and would include all the costs involved in delivering the project, including staff costs and a reasonable percentage of overheads if relevant. The Foundation recommends that the applicant has around half of its funding identified before applying.

Projects should fall within at least one of the following categories:

- Arts – Both revenue and capital grants for a wide range of organisations (from small community theatre groups to national arts galleries) that engage with a variety of audiences and that can demonstrate their impact and quality.
- Community – A large volume of grants are made every year to community projects, many of which rely on the time and goodwill of volunteers. The majority of projects tend to be relatively small compared to other categories due to their local grass-roots nature, and correspondingly the grants made tend to be smaller in comparison. Typical projects supported include revenue grants for volunteering schemes and capital grants for the restoration of village halls and community centres and for facilities to support community life.
- Education – Grants to support education, from small local projects such as reading schemes and after school clubs, to major institutions such as universities.
- Environment – Grants to support a range of environment projects ranging from organisations that raise public awareness of, and find solutions to, specific issues such as sustainable fishing, in addition to charities that undertake active conservation work.
- Faith – Grants to support simple but practical projects that enable religious buildings to be used for an inclusive range of charitable purposes by their local communities. Capital grants include funds towards the instillation of basic amenities such as lavatories and kitchen facilities and for restoration works to historic church buildings.
- Health – Grants range from specialist care homes and hospices, charities specialising in the treatment and support for specific illnesses, to translational research focusing on medical breakthroughs that will benefit generations now and in the future.
- Museums and Heritage – Grants to support organisations that conserve and interpret the nation's heritage for future generations, ensuring it is accessible and available to all.
- Welfare – Grants for charities that work with a variety of causes and groups including the elderly, homeless, disability and special needs and those in the criminal justice system. Grants made reflect a charity's size and the nature of the work or project being undertaken.

- Youth – Grants for charities that consistently demonstrate the commitment of volunteers and professionals across the country to support and inspire young people to achieve their potential. This includes small local groups, such as girl guides and youth clubs to larger national youth development charities.

Esmée Fairbairn Foundation – Food Strand

Aims/priorities: Support is available for initiatives that raise awareness, promote and demonstrate reduced usage of harmful pesticides, herbicides, antibiotics and fossil fuels. The Fund wants to stimulate community involvement in food production and support the development of a more positive policy position as well as encouraging organisations from across the spectrum of food interests to work more closely together to address system-wide issues. Funding priorities are as follows:

- Innovation in alternative approaches – funding is available for inventive projects that can test and demonstrate viable alternative approaches to mainstream corporate food production, retail, and consumption, or the development of food production methods that do less harm to the natural environment, and improve the lives of people, local communities and livestock, or work that influences local food buying and selling and promotes the wider uptake of sustainably produced food. Applicants must develop new methods which can be replicated, or influence policy and practice more widely. The funding should result in an increase supply and demand for food that is produced more sustainably.
- Food and wellbeing – funding is available for work that increases people’s understanding of the role of food in their lives, and the impact it can have on personal and community wellbeing, and changes the preferences, attitudes and behaviour of the public towards food, and takes place on a scale that influences and drives how food is produced, transported, marketed and consumed, and can influence significant numbers of people. Applicants must work in an engaging, persuasive and participatory way. The funding should support the sharing of new ways of changing people’s food habits – both radical and incremental.
- Working towards a more coherent food sector – funding is available for work that forges closer links between third sector organisations and food producers, distributors and consumers, or links advocates of change in the food system more closely with relevant academics and sources of evidence, or persuades mainstream food businesses, policy makers, and the public to engage with food sustainability and to seek sustainable sources of supply. Applicants must have the capacity and skills to engage policy makers at national regional and local level, and have a track record of gathering and presenting persuasive, evidence-based arguments. The funding should enable organisations from across the spectrum of food interests to work more closely together to address system-wide issues.

Sport England – Small Grants Programme

Aims/priorities: The Sport England Small Grants programme will focus funding on adults and young people aged 14 or over. Projects working with mixed age groups may be considered if there is a particular focus on people aged 14 plus. Sport England wants to fund eligible organisations that get more people engaged in sport and meet one or more of the aims in their strategy, which are to:

- Get inactive people to become more active
- Develop more resilient sporting habits
- Lead to more positive attitudes among young people
- Develop more diverse volunteers
- Improve progression and inclusion in talent development

Who can apply? Small Grants can fund formally constituted not-for-profit organisations and statutory bodies. This might include sports clubs, voluntary organisations, local authorities, schools or governing bodies of sport. We will not fund an individual, sole trader or partnership, organisations established to make profit or organisations not established in the UK.

Grant amount: Awards range from £300 – £10,000
